

Roger Allan Farries

January 27, 1951 - January 27, 2019

Roger Allan Farries, 67, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, passed away on January 27, 2019 in Cheyenne.

He was born on March 21, 1951 in Colorado.

Roger worked as an aspiring chef, HVAC technician, and building maintenance. After traveling and working in different states, Roger settled in Cheyenne. Roger enjoyed fishing, cooking, and his friends in Wyoming.

He is survived by his eldest brother, Douglas Farries and his wife, Dolores of Salt Lake City, Utah; nephew, Brandon Farries and his mother Dolores Ballejo of Pueblo, Colorado; great nephew, Greg Grinstead, who is now in the U.S. Marines Corps; and two cousins of Aunt Jane Ann London of Denver, Colorado.

Roger was preceded in death by his parents, Thomas and Louise Farries; brother, Robert Farries; and a niece, Kimberly Grinstead of Pueblo.

Arrangements have taken place under the direction of Wiederspahn-Radomsky Chapel.

“ Roger was my friend since I was in the 6th grade. He was my family's paperboy. i was also friends with Robert. i used to ditch school and go down to his house cuz i knew he or his brother would be there. we both grew up with no father. His mom as well as mine had to work to support our family. We always stayed in touch with each other throughout our lives. Roger came to AZ and lived in my mobile home in 2007 and 2008. We shared the same views about politicians and the government. Especially about the crooked criminal that is trying to dictate in this country. He called things as he saw them. He never tried to be something, other than himself. Roger was my good friend and I already miss him.

“ Roger was a gentle soul, a peaceful man, and a true non-conformist. I used to ditch high school with Roger (he never went), so we could just hang out & listen to music! His theory on living life was 'follow the golden rule!'. He was a true hippie, may he rest in peace...
